

Why Checking for Understanding is so important

Students come to our lessons with different levels of knowledge; both in terms of accuracy and amount. Throughout the lesson it is helpful to know what they do and don't know, as this can inform future teaching decisions.

Some know a lot of correct information

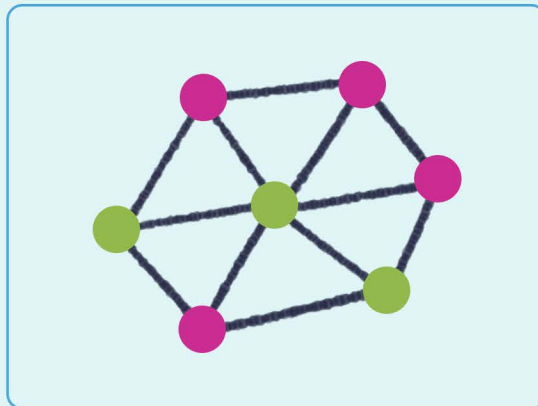

Some know a little correct information

- Correct information
- Incorrect information

Some know a lot of incorrect information

Some know a little incorrect information

